PORTRAYS SOME OF THE MAMY THAT HAVE BECOME TRADITIONAL

College Night

College Night . . . the most outstanding tradition on the Alabama College campus . . . College Night . . . a 26-year evolution from a simple stunt night in the Old Dining Room to the almost professional productions that attract thousands of people to Palmer each year . . . College Night . . . a whole February of sleepless nights, chewing pencil leads, fitting one-finger melodies to song words, going to pep meetings and song practices, planning scenery, plotting lights, designing costumes, yelling Yea Purples and Yea Golds, singing, rehearsing, rehearsing, rehearsing . . . College Night . . . the actual performance, the stunts, the dramatizations, the songs, the dedication . . . College Night . . . the Judges' decision, the tears, the laughter, and then . . . the memory.

May Day

May Day is one of the newer traditions of Alabama College, having been originated in 1932 with the purpose of emphasizing the companionship of the four classes. Since its beginning, May Day has moved steadily toward the idea of being a pageant recognizing beauty and accomplishment.

The May Court is made up of a group of beauties and an honor group, with representatives from each class. They serve as attendants to the May Queen, selected for her grace and beauty, and the Best Citizen, chosen for her scholarship and her service to the college.

Colorful dances, music furnished by the Glee Club and the Orchestra, and maypole dances are part of the program presented to the Court.

The charm and dignity of the occasion combine with the freshness of the performance to make May Day the loveliest tradition of Alabama College.

Step Singing

"Step-singing tonight at 6:30 in Main Lobby!"

This announcement never fails to haul Freshmen and Sophomores out of the old dining room, in a mad scramble for seats on the side stairway or on the floor of Main foyer, for Thursday night Step-singing programs. Juniors and Seniors soon begin seeping in from windows or cracks in the wall, and elbowing a place for themselves in the throng. The musical menu covers everything from community singing to baton-twirling; and while the first program of the year features an exhibition of Freshman talent, the last program of the year stars an exhibition of tears and shiny noses by graduating Seniors.

Crook Week

The Crook is no ordinary stick. Its four and one-half feet of varnished cherry wood repose under lock and key in a glass case in Tutwiler Hall, where it is cherished by the Seniors with the greatest reverence.

To the Juniors, however, the Crook is a silent menace; for, every May since 1926, it has fallen their lot to appear at 5:30 A. M. bedecked in the bemeaning garb prescribed by their Senior Majesties, ready to start beating bushes in search of the hidden Crook.

Many are the woes and long the hours of toil until some lucky Junior hits jackpot: then classes pour pell-mell from every building; the laundry whistle heralds the discovery, and the jubilant Juniors, bearing aloft the Sacred Symbol of Seniordom, resume their former places in the sun.

Elite Night

Sponsored by the MONTAGE staff and staged by an assorted crew of painters, builders, and general flunkies, Elite Night at Alabama College combines a Who's Who contest and a Beauty contest into an evening of breathless excitement.

Candidates for Who's Who are nominated by petition, and on the big night, the student body casts its votes for the most outstanding student in art, science, music, and the like.

Each class contributes ten representatives to the Beauty contest, which is judged by one or more off-campus judges. From the forty contestants strolling nonchalantly across the stage are chosen six Beauties and twelve Favorites, whose pictures appear, with the winners of Who's Who, in the Elite section of the MONTAGE.

Founders Day

AND INVESTITURE SERVICE

Oldest tradition on the campus is Founders' Day, first celebrated on October 12, 1897, the first birthday of Alabama College. Each succeeding Founders' Day commemoration has seen further expansion in the scope of the College curriculum and in the building program on the campus.

On October 12, 1942, another feature was added to Founders' Day: the official bestowal of caps and gowns to the graduating class. The Seniors dressed in white with black gowns over their arms, marched in solemn procession to the front of Palmer Auditorium, where the Dean acquainted them with the true significance of the cap and gown, and with the prestige and responsibilities of Seniordom.

Fire Escape

As traditional as life in Old Main, midnight feasting holds an all-time high in the realm of informal entertainment. "Third East's" dictionary claims that the olives and sardines and chili can be spread in Main smoker or in Tut's ritzy kitchen; the crumbs can be washed down with weak tepid coffee or icy cokes, and it's still a feast. But the guests have to come "in the rough" with cold-creamed or calamined faces, hair screwed tight on bobby pins, slacks rolled to the knees, and last year's "beat-up" moccasins. Honors for the occasion go to the guest with the corniest joke.

Feasts

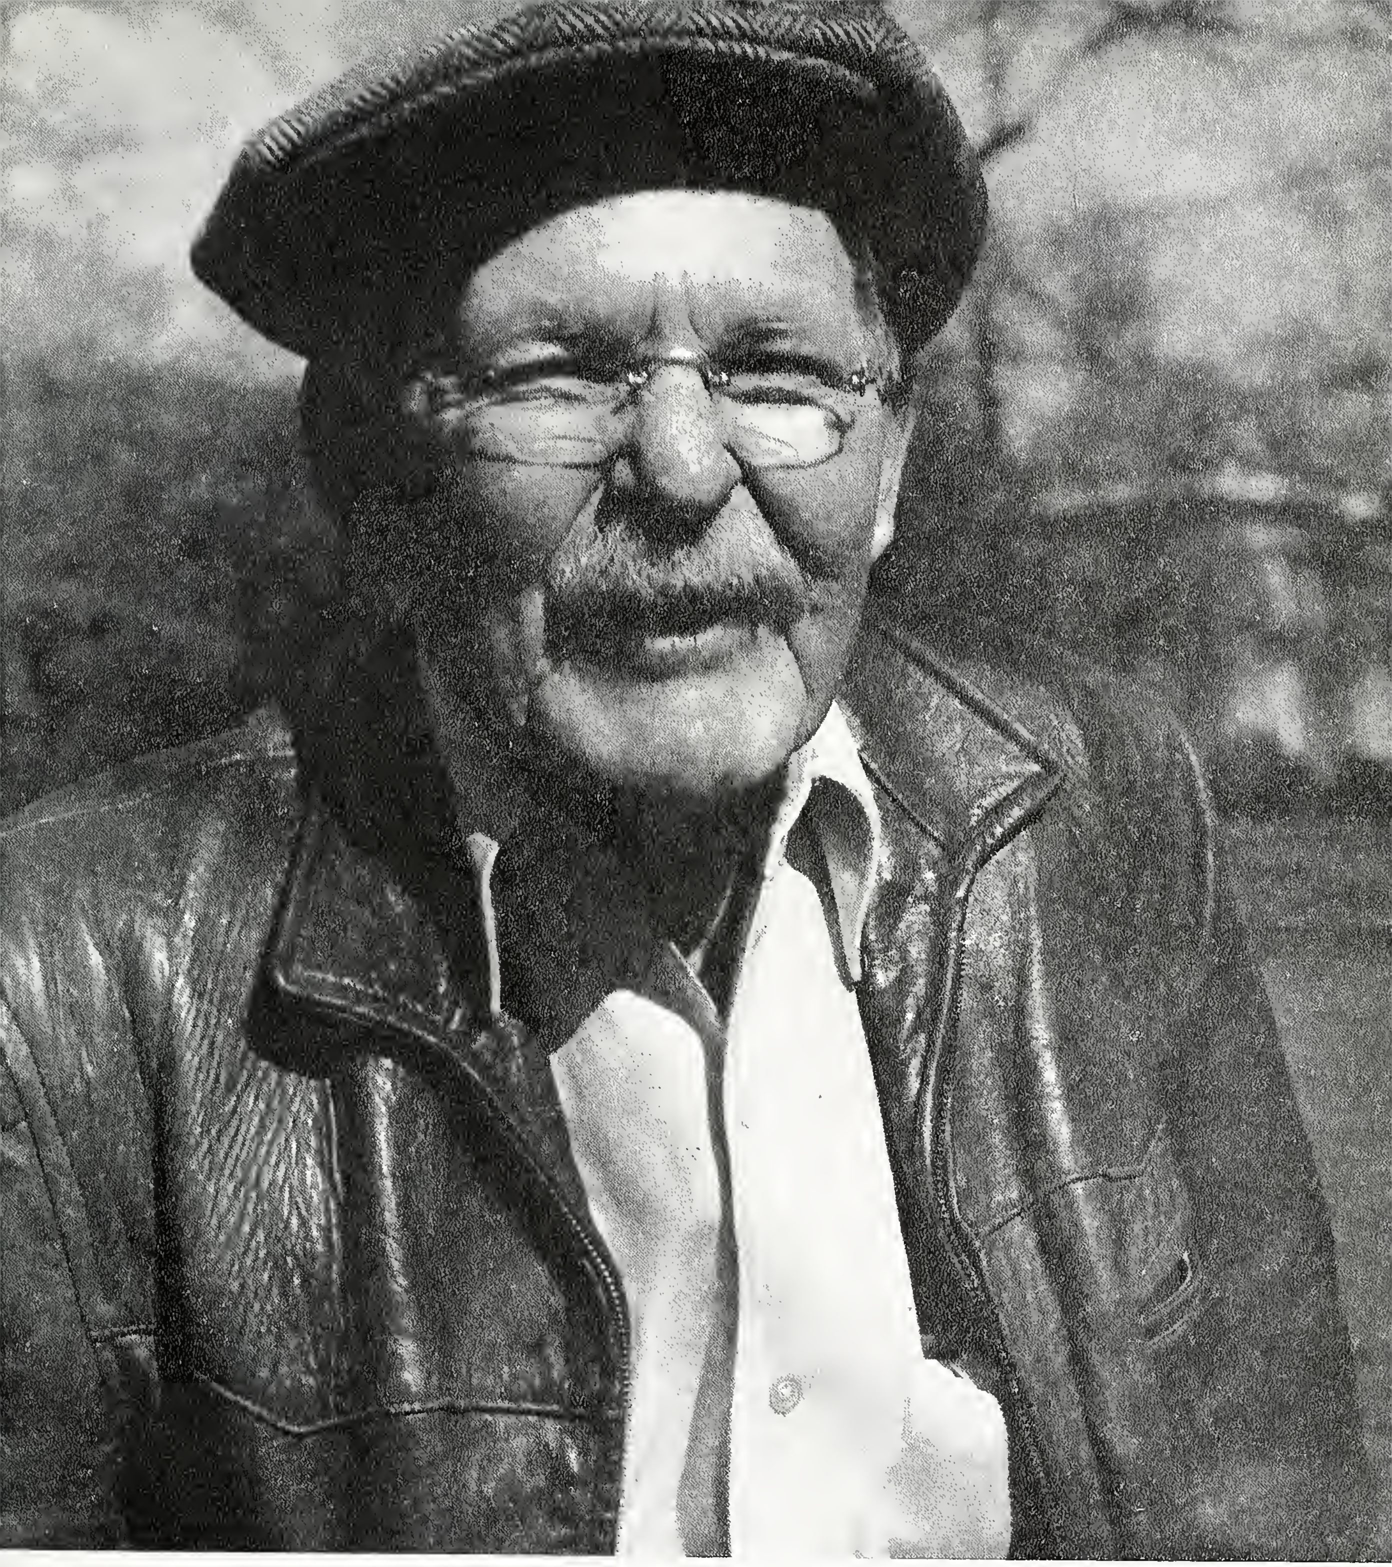
Back in the old days mischievous Freshmen hid in it on Sunday mornings to get out of going to church. Now they come zooming down on Sunday mornings to grab their G. I. mail as fast as Miss Leeper dishes it out. The Fire Escape solves the transportation problem of quick delivery of the weekly laundry to the waiting laundry truck below, speeding up that mad dash to class in the last two minutes before the bell rings, or just a joy-ride now and then.

Dedication

FORTY YEARS AGO WHEN ALABAMA COLLEGE WAS STILL THE ALABAMA GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL, MR. JONES-WILLIAMS CAME TO THE CAMPUS AS ENGINEER AND SUPERINTENDENT OF GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS.

HE HAS WITNESSED THE MAKING OF ALL THE TRADITIONS FOR WHICH OUR COLLEGE IS FAMOUS, AND HIS FRIENDLY INTEREST IN ALL OUR ACTIVITIES HAS ENDEARED HIM TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY ALIKE.

FOR HIS FORTY YEARS OF FAITHFUL SERVICE TO THE COLLEGE, HIS GENUINE INTEREST IN ITS ADVANCEMENT, AND HIS MANY CONTRIBUTIONS TO CAMPUS LIFE, WE PROUDLY DEDICATE THE 1944 MONTAGE TO MR. W. M. JONES-WILLIAMS.



MR. JONES-WILLIAMS

Alabama College opened its doors on October 12, 1896, as the Alabama Girls Industrial School. With a faculty of six, one building (Reynolds Hall), and 145 uniformed students, the little college began its career as a state institution for women.

Located at Montevallo, near the geographical center of the state, Alabama College has grown from a girls' school covering high school subjects and industrial arts, to a standard liberal arts college, granting the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Music degrees.

Alabama College claims membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and in the Association of American Colleges. It is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music and approved by the American Association of Universities.

The PRESIDENT

In his spacious, sunny office one afternoon last Fall, Dr. Harman outlined to us the phases he has seen during his eight years as President of Alabama College. There was first the building phase, in which Tutwiler and Comer Halls were built and Reynolds Hall remodeled. Overlapping that came the development in enrollment and in the student-activity life on the campus. However, Dr. Harman believes the most significant of all the developments is the growing emphasis being placed on the aesthetic values.

He gave us a direct statement of part of his policy as President. He says,

> "I wish to be understood as emphasizing the value to education of beauty of every kind—line, form, color, sound, and expression.
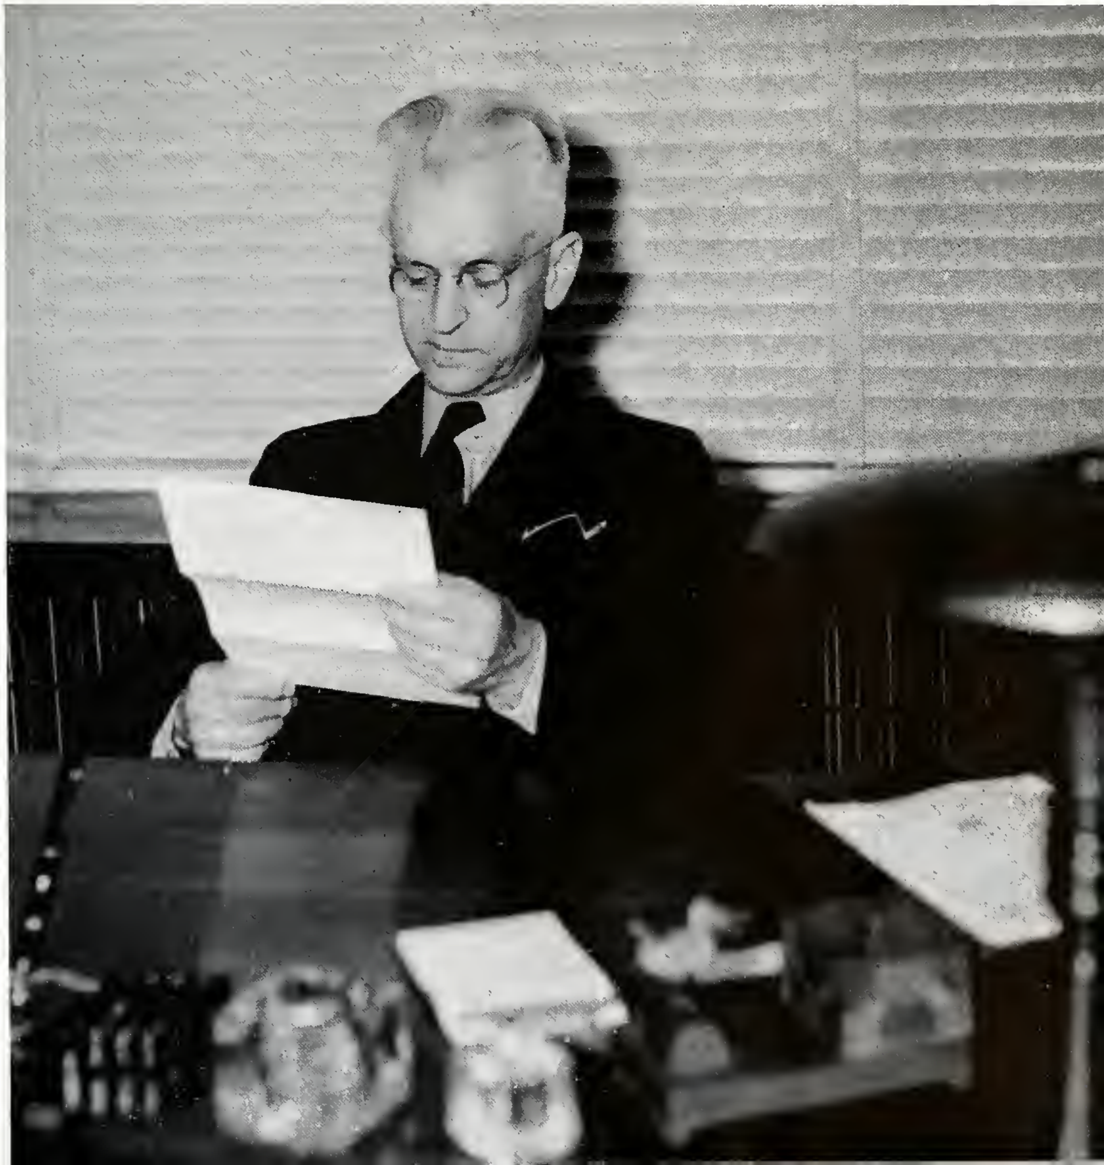
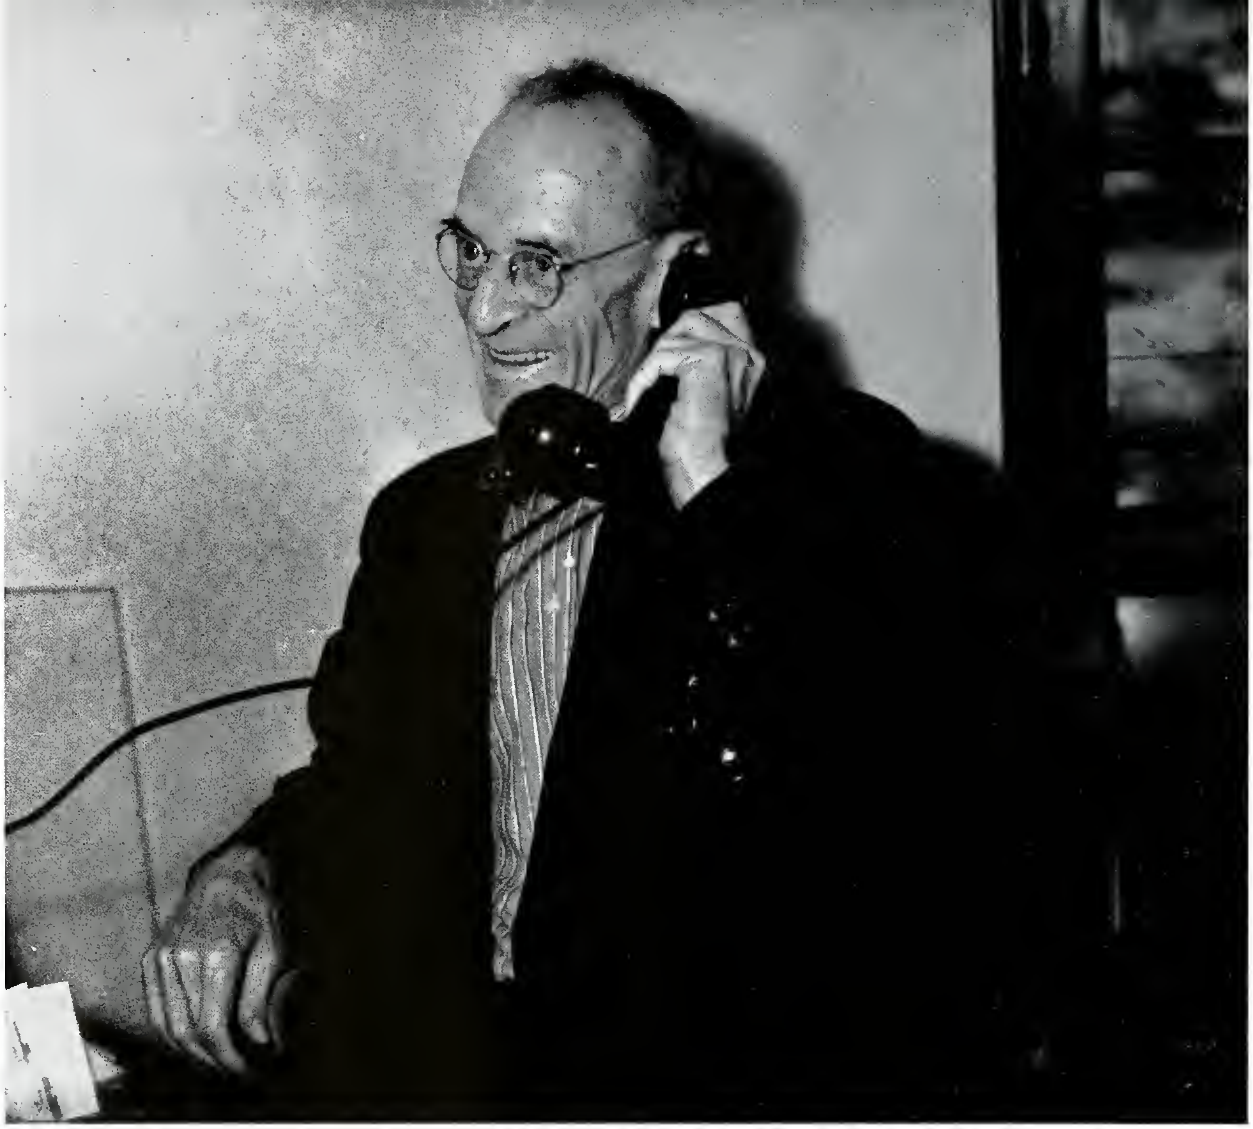
> "I hold stoutly to the thesis that higher education is the best of its kind in proportion as it can be achieved without compulsion."

That Dr. Harman is a firm believer in both of these ideals can be proved by evidence on every hand over our campus. The loveliness of Flower Hill, the home of the President, and the graciousness with which students are received there are cherished traditions. The ever-increasing beauty of our campus is another. To Dr. Harman goes the sincere appreciation for many innovations affecting our four years as students of Alabama College.



DR. A. F. HARMAN



MR. E. H. WILLS

MR. WILLS

To Mr. Wills, our financial expert, the history of the many Alabama College traditions is a familiar tale. He has been on hand to see the origin of more than a few of them. From the time he came here as a young man to teach history—he is still remembered by some of the faculty as "Beau Brummel"—until his present job of Business Manager, he has seen the campus change and its customs give way to progress. Mr. Wills, in that time, has become one of the most highly respected members of our college community. We are grateful to him not only for the smooth working of our business affairs, but for his guiding help and constant willingness to give us advice on any subject.

DEAN NAPIER

"What do I think is our greatest tradition?" Dean Napier pondered a moment, then smiled and answered slowly, "Well, I think perhaps it is the sense of personal responsibility our girls feel after they take their places in society. They seem to have more than just a desire to make good, they want to show that they can do what's to be done and do it right." He hesitated, then nodded with conviction, "Yes, that seems to me to be the strongest single tradition Alabama College has kept through the years I've seen here."

We feel that this tradition is reflective of the Dean himself. The many classes he has helped graduate carry with them yet something of his kindly influence. Throughout the twenty-seven years of active and busy service here on the campus and in the town of Montevallo, Dean Napier has always "done what was to be done and done it right." We are grateful to him for instilling this much of his own personality into our individual attitudes.

A million things besides classes must function on a college campus in order that students may live as well as learn. The Administrative Staff devotes its efforts to keeping Alabama College alive and well satisfied.

ADMIN

The problem of reconciling collegiate appetites to wartime shortages is the concern of Misses Anna and Edna Irvin, dietitians; and the shelter situation is juggled by Mrs. McCoy, Dean of Residence, with the housemothers: Mrs. Duncan of Tutwiler, Miss Kemp, Hanson; Mrs. Burton, Ramsay; and Mrs. McNeill of Main.

The psychological knots of A. C. students are untied by Dr. Steckel, who as Student Counselor gives them welcome advice.

Miss Lee, Bursar, assisted by Miss Cooper, does financial arithmetic for the College as a whole, and for individual students if they choose.

If it's pills or potions she needs, the Alabama College girl makes a bee-line to the Infirmary, where she is confident of speedy diagnosis and treatment by Dr. Peck, assisted by Misses Killingsworth and Tillmon.

STRATIVE STAFF

Miss Hendrick, Registrar, transcribes our grades and sends them to us and to our parents every nine weeks.

Campus news is parcelled out to interested papers over the state by Mr. Wyatt, press agent and Executive Secretary. Students who have left the campus "keep in touch" through the Alumnae Secretary, Miss Fuller.

Data on vocational possibilities may be obtained from Miss Gachet, Vocational Advisory Director, who also conducts the annual Summer Career Conference for high school seniors.

Term-paper-ridden scholars find life easier because of Miss Russell and Miss Hall, super-efficient librarians, and Miss Leeper of the Supply Department. And, when work hours are over, they may apply to Mrs. Woods, hostess of Reynalds, for use of the kitchen, dining rooms, and parlors.

MICS

Largest department on the campus, the Home Economics Department has as its main purpose the training of young women for home-making and for professions requiring specialization in the various fields of Home Economics.

Under the guidance of a well-trained, competent staff, Home Economics majors have a selection of courses including homemaking, family relations, cosmetology, poultry, landscape gardening, clothing, nutrition, textiles, and retailing.

J. H. HENNING, A.B., M.S.
MISS MARY JUNE WICKERSHAM, A.B.
WALTER H. TRUMBAUER, B.S., A.M., Ph.D., Director, College Theater

Among the manifold courses in the Speech Department are those in public speaking, interpretation, voice and diction, and rehabilitation.

Courses in play production include directing, acting, stage craft, stage lighting and theatre make-up.

Another important phase of the work of the Speech Department is its radio workshop, which presents two regular programs each week over station WAPI in Birmingham.

This scene from the College Theatre production of LOST HORIZON shows a set constructed and painted by students.

The College Theater, under the able direction of Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, is a practical laboratory in play production. Students participating in its activities learn the use of technical equipment in the theaters in Palmer and Reynolds Halls.

A theater workshop provides material for building and painting scenery; and the theater's wardrobe consists of some three thousand items of Greek, Elizabethan, Chinese, Japanese, and 18th Century costumes.

With its staff of well-trained, able musicians, the Music Department contributes much to life on the campus. The orchestra and glee club perform at public functions. Senior majors give piano, violin, and voice recitals in the spring; and various members of the music faculty present annual concerts on the campus.

Courses in theory and applied music, history, and appreciation constitute the curriculum of the department.

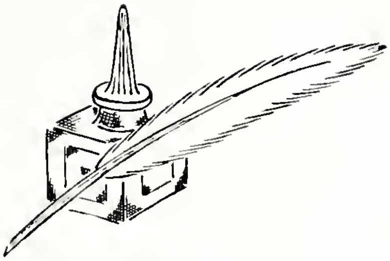
Between the years 1896 and 1944, the enrollment in classes at Alabama College has grown from 145 to 630 students.

Main Dormitory, which formerly housed all four classes, was supplemented in time by Ramsay Hall, the Sophomore dormitory; Hanson Hall, for Juniors; and Tutwiler Hall, for Seniors.

Each class has its own governing body, which plans and directs the year's activities. The class play, the annual class dance, and other entertainments throughout the term create class spirit and loyalty to the College.

A noteworthy phase of life on the campus is the friendly co-operation and interest among the four classes, which carry out the democratic tradition at Alabama College.

Classes . . .



When Traditions Began . . .

AND OUR GRANDMOTHERS CAME TO "A.G.I.S."

DOWN WITH INFLATION! "There is little need for pocket money," read the College Catalog, "except for articles needed for actual use, and parents should always inquire for what purpose money is wanted. It will always be well for them to require an itemized account of all money spent by their children; it makes them more systematic and teaches them lessons of economy."

TEN FULL HOURS AND CHICKEN WITH A FORK . . . "Study hours begin at seven o'clock p.m. and last until nine p.m. At nine-thirty, all students must retire. Monitors are required to report any breach of table manners as well as any other violation of the rules, as the conduct of each girl in school or out is the subject of closest scrutiny."

BLUE SERGE UNIFORMS MARCH TO CHURCH . . . "All pupils are required to attend Sunday School and the church of their choice once every Sunday . . . Attendance on church at night either during the week or on Sunday nights is forbidden. Religious services are held every morning in chapel at which Faculty and pupils are required to be present."

SHADES OF SANTA CLAUS . . . "Parents are requested not to encourage their daughters in coming home at Christmas, as only one day will be given for holiday and classes and work will move on as usual. We have found it expensive and demoralizing for pupils to go home and we earnestly urge parents to consider this rule."

"DEAR MOM" . . . "It is understood that pupils are not here to enter society, but to be educated; therefore they are not allowed to correspond with gentlemen and visits from them are positively forbidden under penalty of expulsion."

AND IF PARENTS DISAGREED . . . "Should you have any grounds of complaint, write frankly to the President, a personal letter, and much trouble and annoyance can thus be avoided on both sides. Bear in mind, children often become homesick and write without restriction. Due allowance should be made for their immaturity and inexperience. Their welfare is the subject of our constant attention."

OFFICERS

ANN BOYD	President
CELIA LIGHTFOOT	Vice-President
VIRGINIA SMITH	Secretary
NELL MAY McCORQUODALE	Treasurer

The Freshmen who in 1941 packed Main Dormitory from first floor to "Buzzard," oozed out at Central windows and nightly braved the overpowering presence of their Senior sisters to scuff up their saddle oxfords in Tutwiler Fun Room . . .

The Sophomores of 1942, who saw all, knew all, and condescendingly passed it on to properly respectful (they hoped) Freshmen . . .

The Juniors of 1943 who utterly flabbergasted the Senior class by "stealing" the venerable crook, glass case and all, and spiriting it away to an empty room in Hanson, thereby forcing the Seniors to search for the Crook . . .

Surprisingly enough, became the Seniors of 1944, nonchalantly strolling in and out of Tutwiler, incessantly discussing Practice Teaching, casually referring to diplomas and the Dean's tea, and proudly maintaining all the traditions for which Alabama College is famous.

The JUNIOR Class

OFFICERS

LILLIAN DODGE	President
MARY GENE McMURPHY	Vice-President

MARY LOUISE CAMERON	Treasurer

Snugly entrenched in Hanson Hall, remote from Main and the Freshmen whom they tried as Sophomores to impress, and with a weather-eye to reaching Tut next year, the Juniors decide at last to "buckle down."

They pore over the theories of progressive education; they "observe" at the High School, and make sage comments to admiring underclassmen; they dig into their major and minor courses with a vengeance; and they begin to speculate on Spring elections, realizing suddenly that out of their class must come the presidents of the big organizations, the "political bosses" of next year!

Biggest threat to the Juniors' status is Crock Week, for which they prepare by reading Emily Post, catching up in advance with their sleep, and making mental lists of possible hiding places of the Unordinary Stick.

However, when they have proved their mettle by finding the Sacred Crock, the Jolly Juniors regain their temporarily-lost prestige and take over all the responsibilities of their new offices.

Upperclassmen look with an amused but tolerant eye upon the self-esteemed Brain Trust of the campus, the sophisticated Sophomores.

The Sophomores know all the answers: they know which courses are "breezes;" they advise by the hour with benighted Freshmen, whom they feel obligated to initiate into college life; they describe with relish their blood-curdling experiences with term papers and final examinations; and they pass out, gratis, helpful hints to the Juniors in their search for the Crook, or to Seniors struggling through Practice Teaching.

Uniformly cheerful and untroubled by the weighty problems of their elders, the Sophomores surprise the campus-at-large by growing up and becoming a capable, serious-minded class of Juniors, ready to shoulder their responsibilities as upperclassmen and to make a real contribution to life at the college.

FRESHMAN COMMITTEE

JOANNA SNUGGS, Chairman; BETTY FOLKS, NANCY SIMMONS, HELEN PETERSON.

Ever since the first Freshman Class arrived on the campus in October 1896, hung their grey regulation uniforms in the West Wing of Main Dormitory, and began their first day of classes in Reynolds Hall, the Freshmen have been the center of interest at Alabama College.

They consistently have more enthusiasm and more dates than any other class on the campus. They absorb with awe all the information passed out by the Orientation Committee; they are slightly skeptical of the Sophomore's hair-raising definitions of "term papers"; but they are not at all fooled when asked by bland-faced upperclassmen to report to the farm to pick strawberries or milk cows.

The class of 1947, under the able leadership of Joanna Snuggs and Birdye Borland, have made an enviable contribution to every phase of life at Alabama College. They entertained the Student Body with a Halloween party and a class play, "Crime at Blossoms"; they supplied six of the twelve "favorites" in the Beauty Section; and they turned out en masse to cheer the Juniors through Crook Week and to make College Night a grand success.

MISS BROOKE CAME TO THE COLLEGE IN 1908

Back in 1916 the students of Alabama College petitioned for the privilege of student government, and thus was born the first major organization on the campus.

In the twenty-eight years following, the College has recognized five other major organizations: the Y. W. C. A., the Student Senate, the Recreation Association, the Publications Board, and the Presidents' Council; fifteen departmental clubs, fourteen honorary fraternities, and six religious organizations.

The administration and students believe that participation in student organizations is valuable experience in democratic living, and that the practice of these activities fosters the democratic spirit for which our campus is famous.

Presidents' COUNCIL

IS A STEERING COMMITTEE FOR CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

OFFICERS

HELEN WARREN	President
MARY McCLURE	Secretary
FRANCES BAILEY	Treasurer

Composed of all the campus presidents, the Presidents' Council is a co-ordinator for all student groups.

The Council took an active part in the orientation of Freshmen in September, acting as pages, guides, and assistants in registration. It managed the recording of student activity credits, and sponsored the Honors Day banquet which was held after the Spring elections.

STUDENT GOV

MAKES AND ENFORCES

OFFICERS

DOROTHY JEAN RODDY	President
EDITH FOSTER	Vice-President
JOYCE GRIFFIN	Secretary
LUCILLE HOLT	Treasurer

One of the three organizations whose rolls contain every student on the campus is the Student Government, which administers the making and enforcing of regulations through an Executive Board. These duties, however, are only a small part of the activities carried on by the Student Government.

Top: Dorothy Jean Roddy.
Bottom: Foster, Holt, Griffin.

RNMENT ASSOCIATION

OUR RULES

Freshmen entering college in the Fall find Student Government members waiting to help them in Orientation, teach them the Alma Mater, and interpret for them the regulations in the handbook.

They are introduced to the faculty and administration at a formal reception which this organization sponsors; and, most exciting of all, they experience their first College Night through the planning of the Student Government.

Freshmen are impressed with Spring elections and installations, but they are glad to let down their hair and make merry at the Student Government Inaugural Ball.

OFFICERS

ANNIE LAURIE BOGGS	President
EVA HANCOCK	Vice-President
EVELYN COMER	Secretary
NELL HODGES	Treasurer

The Student Senate is composed of representatives from each of the four classes who have a high record in scholastic achievement and extra-curricular activities.

The Senate makes its first public appearance during Orientation Week, when its pages help incoming Freshmen with registration.

Throughout the year the Senate acts as a service organization for the campus. The several committees have charge of the State and College flags, entertainment for high school guests who visit the College, and sponsorship of Honors Day.

STUDENT SENATE

ENTERTAINED HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS WITH A HOUSE PARTY

Last year the Senate instituted a Spring House Party for high school seniors from all over the state, which was repeated this year. Dances, hikes, splash parties, step-singing, and informal recreation served to give the visitors a glimpse of life at Alabama College. All the organizations on the campus joined with the Senate to make the House Party a success.

The Recreation Association claims as its members the entire student body. Its purpose is to promote the health, recreation, and friendship of students.

Always an active organization, the "Rec Board" this year entertained the Freshmen during Orientation Week with a picnic-hike to camp. It has furnished music for informal dancing in Tutwiler Fun Room and given several parties at the Field House.

Mary Hardwick and Dorothy Little brave the bitter November wind to play an exhibition tennis game on the campus.

INCLUDES THE ENTIRE STUDENT BODY

"On the go" from Orientation to commencement is the Y. W. C. A., which includes in its membership the entire student body.

Each class has its own organization, under the supervision of the "Big Y": the Freshman Commission, the Sophomore Council, the Junior Forum, and the Senior Seminar hold regular monthly meetings.

The Y. W. C. A.'s many activities include the Sunday Vespers service, sponsorship of the World Student Service Fund Drive, Religious Emphasis Week, and the Tea Room; a Sis Major-Sis Minor party during Orientation Week, and a marriage course for Seniors in the Spring.

For the Religious Emphasis Week services this year, the Y. W. C. A. presented Dr. Marvin Franklin of the South Highlands Methodist Church in Birmingham.

It may be a symphony concert or it may be somebody with a date . . .

But if it happens on the Alabama College campus, it will probably find its way, sooner or later, into the pages of the Alabamian. Published bi-monthly, the Alabamian takes news of the campus happenings to parents and alumnae as well as keeping students up on the latest.

ALABAMIAN

KEEPS US INFORMED ON CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

With publications finances cut and newsprint off to the wars, the Alabamian staff has done most of its concentration this year on merely getting out the two issues per month. It has kept us informed, however, about such things as honors bestowed on members of the college community, club initiations, plays, lectures, and . . . of course, gossip!

Serving former students as well as the students here on the campus, the Alabamian brings latest data on interesting alumnae happenings through the alumnae column. This year it has also brought to the attention of its readers many of the personalities on the campus through an interview column.

To give a truly representative picture of all of college life is the lofty purpose of the 1944 MONTAGE — which statement explains those bitten fingernails and volumes of doodling characteristic of staff members. It also accounts for some of the editor's grey hairs.

Photographers, writers, typists and business manager have been on their heads from Orientation Week right up to May 29 to catch all the big moments of the year.

Preview! Industrious staff members take a peek at their pictures in the class section.

TAGE

Those whirring noises which you may have mistaken for bullets were really Virginia, Helen, and Minnie, speeding across the campus like greyhounds, "bound" not to skip a thing. And if you missed Louise Johnson's frequent renditions of 'St. Louis Blues", it was on those days when she was traipsing over the state getting signatures on the well-known dotted lines for advertisements.

Publishing a yearbook is not all apple pie and cheese, especially with the current shortages. After the staff had spent a large part of the first semester in frenzied searching for flash bulbs, film packs, and other equipment, Uncle Sam relented, so that equipment, if not inspiration, was plentiful.

With the help of many a cup of ration-free coffee, the weary staff finally pulled the copy (and itself) together, and sent the material in to Mr. Faerber, the engraver, and Mr. Preiss, the printer. And thus (by the hardest) appeareth the 1944 MONTAGE.

Louise, Business Manager, and Helen, Editor, choose a cover for the 1944 Montage.

Top: Work logs while assistant editors admire pictures of the "Dan Pasquale" cast . . . Bottom, left: The three-ring-circus of activities which produce the annual Montage . . . Bottom, right: No "7-Up" advertisement—but even the best of staffers must pause now and then for refreshment. (Notice the determined concentration of Ye Ed.)

Life at Alabama College is a constant round of traditional student activities. Along with the first touch of Fall in the air comes Elite Night, and the exciting election of beauties, favorites, and "Who's Who."

Next on the calendar is College Night, which offsets the rain and cold of February weather; and with the coming of Spring, all eyes turn to May Day and to Crook Week, for which the entire campus turns out to belabor the stricken Juniors.

Throughout the year the Recreation Association sponsors seasonal sports and faculty-student recreation; and these are supplemented by all the informal "recreatings" which the students themselves invent—loafing, sun-bathing, hiking, dancing, and dozens of similar activities.

Newton and West, for whom the Purples cheered . . . Cartwright and Cooper led the cheering.

College NIGHT . . . THE

For the twenty-sixth time in the history of Alabama College, February found Purples and Golds entrenched behind locked doors to discuss those all-important College Night secrets.

Every night during the countless practices and preparations, loyal Purples and Golds braved rain and cold to attend song rehearsals, pep meetings, and building sessions at the scene shop. All other phases of campus life were shoved, temporarily, into the background—and out of the pandemonium came another successful College Night.

PURPLES . . .

Amy Lowell's poem, Patterns, was the source of the Purple dramatization. The stunt featured the hilarious escapades of an American aviator who landed by parachute in North Africa, where he barely escaped marrying the two hundred pound daughter of an African chieftain.

The Purple Slow Song was a Negro spiritual, sung in three-part harmony with an obbligato, while the Pep Song was a spirited tribute to women in the armed forces.

Left: The Shiek flourishes a sword at the guiltless Hot Dog—but . . . Center: Mama has a matrimonial plan cooking on the front burner—and . . . Right: Papa aims to see that there is no slip-up.

For their dramatization, the Golds chose Lloyd C. Douglas' The Robe, the story of a Roman soldier who cast lots for the robe of Christ and won it.

The Gold stunt was the fanciful story of rationing in the land of Mother Goose.

Left to Right: "He just sits there and stares into space—I fear for his safety" . . . The Robe has a hypnotic effect on Morcellus, who won it in lottery . . . "It seems this man calls himself King of the Jews."

Left to Right: Mother Goose's children gather 'round Simple Simon's eel. . . "Aren't you Jack-be-nimble, Jack-be-quick'?" . . . The butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker do business with Little Red Riding Hood . . . The Robe is brought in to a Roman feast so that the revelers may celebrate the death of its owner . . . The Sandman offers any wish she chooses to this "good little girl." . . . Simple Simon lands a whale — or at least, a good-sized goldfish.

The GOLDS . . .

For their Slow Song, the Golds used as a theme the weariness of a world at war, and its prayer for permanent peace. The Pep Song was a lilting Negro melody.

College Night, 1944, was dedicated to Dean T. H. Napier; and special guests were alumnae in the services.

This year's decision was in favor of the Golds.

CROOK

"We now pronounce you ganefs!" So spake the mighty Seniors at Crook Convocation to the lesser beings cowering below. (And, in order that the Juniors might realize the full extent of their humiliation, their "Most August Magistrates of the Supreme Court of the Most Excellent and Most Illustrious Seniors," prescribed the ball-and-chain, striped shirts, and bestockinged headdress denoting a common jail-bird.)

As the Juniors shuffled at ninety-degree angles past lofty Tutwiler Hall, they were heard to chant wearily, "I wish I had wings like an angel—over these prison walls I would fly"'

WEEK...

Their balls and chains tangled treacherously with the trees and bushes in which they lodged themselves while seeking the Honorable Stick, and their stockinged heads drooped in classes as they pondered on the possible hiding places they had missed.

Only by a few frenzied minutes did the unfortunate ganefs beat the deadline—that fateful hour when the Freshmen would be asked to lend assistance—when Catherine Ross, submerged in the depths of the woods behind Dr. Harmon's house, piped up weakly, "I've found it!"

And, after a hot bath, three hours spent in removing briers from their persons, and trying to restore their flattened hair-do's, the late ganefs began hatching up schemes to use on the Juniors of 1944.

* * *

Top: Like convicts the Hapless Juniors line up and shuffle along, serenading their Senior Majesties . . . Center: Edie and Annie Bess cater to the Seniors' little whims — entertaining them this time with an enchanting ladder stunt. Bottom: H-Hour! Sherman's march to the sea couldn't rival the triumph of this parade, when Catherine found the Crook.

The STUDENT SENATE
MAY

May Day, 1943, was held in late afternoon on the Upper Hockey Field. The Honor Group and the Beauties, in flowing pastel gowns, entered from opposite sides of the field and took their places on the platform, which was designated to represent a pink shell.

Following the procession came the May Queen, who was Sarah Griffith, and the Best Citizen, Carolyn Blair. The Queen was attended by Jane Black, crown-bearer, and the Best Citizen was attended by Sidney Gallaway, cup bearer. When they reached their thrones on the platform, the Best Citizen placed the crown on the Queen's head and received the cup herself.

Peasant dances, Chinese and military dances added color to the May Day festivities.

Presents . . .

DAY ★ ★

Entertainment for the May Court was planned around Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite." The program consisted of dances performed by the Dance Group and by members of various dancing classes of the Physical Education Department. At the close of the program, two groups of girls, gaily dressed in bright dresses and white pinafores, danced around maypoles.

On completion of the maypole dances, the May Queen and Best Citizen and their attendants formed a procession and left the field, thereby drawing to a close the 1943 May Day celebration.

Around THE CAL

September and October:

After the noise and bustle of Orientation had simmered down to a muted hum, classes began and students found time for tenniquoits season.

Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors turned out en masse to compete for the "Jug" in the inter-dormitory tournament; and great was the rejoicing when Third East, Main brought it home.

Mary slides in and is called "safe" several inches ahead of the ball.

Bad weather brought to a premature ending the tennis tournament, at the crucial point when Jimmy Calvin and Cecile Aucoin had just reached the finals!

Tennis fans got a taste of professional playing, however, when Mary Hardwick and Dorothy Round Little, British tennis stars, came to the campus for an exhibition game. Virginia West and Cecile Aucoin were the lucky students selected to play with them in the second game.

Two down and one to go—send this one over the fence!

DAR WITH ATHLETICS

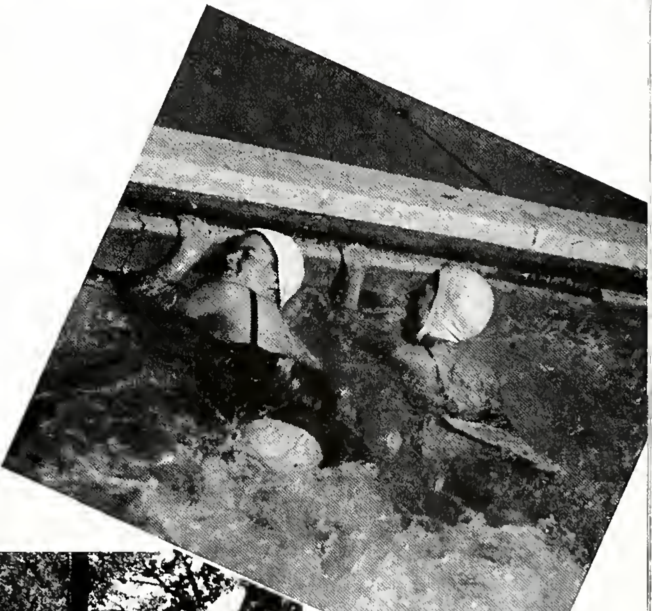
October, November, and December:

The "bright blue weather" of early October was ideal for volley ball, which lasted through December. Ramsay, not to be outdone by its underclassmen opponents, won the venerable Jug in the inter-dormitory volley ball tournament.

Soccer too was a popular sport during October and November; and though no formal competition was held, the regular soccer classes reported great enthusiasm in the game.

January and February:

Preparations and practices for the College Night basketball game between Purples and Golds began in January, and culminated in an exciting contest in mid-February—won by the Golds with a score of 23 to 15.



Left: The Dance Group exercises its collective muscles, then . . . Right: whirls out into the open spaces to demonstrate its art.
Top: Hey! Scared to turn loose? The water's not that cold! . . . Bottom: Swimming class gets ready to splash all the water out of the pool—or is this just a beauty parade? (Don't take it to heart, girls, Newton was taking pills while she penned these poetic lines.)

Undaunted by lack of a real golf course, these amateurs swing away on the athletic field.

At MONTEVALLO

March:

March is the month for individual sports—tennis, badminton, golf, and archery—when prospective contestants begin priming themselves for the Spring tournaments, and regular classes in these sports take on new zeal in their activities.

April:

Between April showers and sessions of sunbathing, the student body begins its daily splashing in the swimming pool—orderly and attentive during swimming classes, but hilariously noisy during open hours.

April, too, is the month of softball. Last Spring many different groups met after school hours for informal games, instead of the usual dormitory tournaments.

Top: Freshman class in volley ball squints against the sun . . . to see if the ball gets over! . . . Bottom, Left: This picture will get a little tiresome through the years! . . . Right: Jimmie down, Kate up, Marise upside-down, and Bettie comin' through-

May:

The National Telegraphic Archery Tournament focuses attention on our local Robin Hoods. Last May our team placed twenty-third in the nation, with a score of 2,818 for 514 hits. Virginia Windham, as we go to press, is champion archer on the campus, with a high score of 412.

Throughout the year regularly scheduled classes in calisthenics, folk-dancing, modern dance and tumbling were carried on indoors. The several sections of the Freshman physical education classes held tournaments in each of the seasonal sports.

An enjoyable phase of the Physical Education Department's activities was its program of "Fun Nights" and demonstrations in the Field House, which were attended by large numbers of students and faculty members.

Funniest event of these "get-togethers" was a musical baseball game between students, whose captain was Jonesy Jones, and faculty, led by Miss Gould. Game was called in when a tie was reached, because of bed-time—or maybe (the umpire being a faculty member) to save the dignified faculty team from defeat at the hands of its protegees!

OUR TREASURED LANDMARKS will Endure

Long after war has ceased they will stand as beacons to the American Way . . . to greater achievement in religion, arts, science, research, and industry. The way is not easy. It is narrow. It is sometimes rough. Other paths beckon alluringly, as seeming short cuts. But in mankind's halting progress through the ages many paths have been explored before. If now in uncertainty we change paths we will slow up progress and confuse those whose eyes are on us. By further smoothing of the proved paths we can continue to inspire earnest men everywhere to follow the way that already has led one nation so far toward the better and happier life for all.
